

Al Rostamani Human Resources Department awarded ISO Certification

The Al Rostamani Group HR department was awarded the ISO 9001:2000 certification on the 22nd of June 2008. We at the Al Rostamani Group are very proud to be awarded this accolade which recognizes our commitment to constantly improving our services. This certificate acknowledges that the HR department works according to a common international standard and applies a system of policies and procedures. The implementation of this standard ensures a system of checks and balances, and most importantly one of continuous improvement. The implementation of the ISO standards is beneficial to both the HR department and the Al Rostamani Group staff, since it ensures improved quality of services, communication and follow-up, as well as possibilities to make known both complaints and satisfaction.
